County bus hit from behind Driver averts serious injuries in Tuesday wreck

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER

Tension was high as people gathered around the scene, of what could have been a tragedy, to look at the mangled wreckage of the school bus before it was towed away.

An experienced driver probably saved more than a dozen children's lives Tuesday after the school bus he was driving was hit from behind by a tractor trailer truck.

The driver of the bus, Eric Moran, 37, of Bay St. Louis and 18 students on the bus were taken to Hancock Medical Center.

Only one student remains in Hancock Medical Center. All others were treated and released.

The driver of the truck, Jeffrey H. Witchers, 33, of Belle Chase, La., who was also taken to Hancock Medical Center, was treated.

Arrest is made in VFW burglary

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER

The Bay St. Louis Police Department has solved a burglary which involved a large amount of cash.

The burglary of the VFW at 208 3rd St., Bay St. Louis, occurred on Oct. 16.

"The safe was broken into and approximately $1,500 in cash was stolen," Detective Tom Burleson, with the Bay St. Louis Police Department, said.

On the morning of Oct. 17, Bay St. Louis detective Shane Corr and Burleson arrested Olen M. Spoon, 47, 205-B Union St., Bay St. Louis, a former employee of the VFW.

"The safe was not blown or pried open. He may have known the combination since he worked there a few years ago," Burleson said.

All monies stolen were recovered, Burleson added.

Spoon has been charged with burglary of a business and is currently in the Hancock County Justice Facility under $10,000 bond.

Bay now owns depot property

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

The City of Bay St. Louis received title Wednesday afternoon to the old CSX depot.

Mayor Eddie Favre issued a check to CSX Transportation in the amount of $80,042, and it was given to J. Joe Horn, Senior Project Engineer, Engineering Department, CSX Rail Transport at a signing ceremony held in City Hall. Council President Charles Scianna represented the Bay Council.

An elated Favre said, "This has been a long time in coming and I am very happy we can now proceed with our restoration project."

Favre indicated the city had received proposals from seven or eight architects for the project and after initial reviews has narrowed the field down to three.

"We should make the decision on an architect within the next two weeks for the restoration of the depot," Favre said.

On estimating a time frame for a start of the renovations, Favre said actual work on the restoration should begin around March 1, 1995.

"After an architect is selected, they will have to draw

Red Ribbon Week is an anti-drug activity

BY CHARLEE MARSHALL

Red Ribbon Week, Oct. 22 through Oct. 30, is being observed by schools all over the United States, including those in Hancock and surrounding counties.

Students are learning how to win the fight against drugs through simple but effective ways such as poster contests, puppet shows, rap competitions and other methods that raise youth awareness.

The week is also a yearly commemoration of the death of Enrique Camarena, a DEA agent who was killed in the line of duty. Red ribbons are used to remind us of the price he paid to help put an end to drug trafficking.

The hope of America is in the education of its youth, say the sponsors of Mississippi's Red Ribbon Celebration, DREAM, Inc. and the Division of Alcohol and Drug Abuse, State Department of Mental Health. The organizations provided many of the supplies and ideas for activities to mark the occasion.

In Memoriam

In Loving Memory of
PEARL BOURGEOIS ELLIS
Born October 28, 1929
Died November 27, 1994
Mama, yet another birthday rolled around, even though you were not here with us. Ten years ago come November, God called you home to be with Him. Every year that goes by makes it harder to deal with your being gone. You played a big part in every one of our lives. You are always in our memories, our hearts and our lives. Your spirit still lives on through your children and grandchildren. It gives us great joy to tell our children what a wonderful person you were and how much joy you brought to each one of us. It still brings a tear to our eyes every time your name is mentioned. But you have given us many happy memories that still make us smile, and we will cherish them always until the day God calls us up to Heaven to be with you again. Sadly missed by Your Children, Grandchildren, Brothers, Sisters, Daughters-in-law, Sons-in-law and Sisters-in-law. We love you, Mama.

Put them all together, they spell Mother, a word that means the world to us. We miss you, and we miss your loving embrace. You were always there when we needed you, no matter what time of night or day. Love had no certain hour with you. It was with you all the time. We need you here with us, but God knows you were ready to go home. So he called you on to Heaven to be with Daddy, because Daddy needed you also. And he was waiting for you with open arms. We still have precious memories of you, memories that will last and we will cherish forever. We love you and miss you very much. You always gave us your shoulder to cry on, and you always listened to us when we told you our problems. You would do your best to help us solve them, no matter how bad you felt. Some day we will all be together again, when God calls us home to Heaven. Sadly missed by Your Children, Grandchildren, Great-grandchildren; Sons-in-law, and Daughters-in-law.

Hancock board discusses prayer

BY CHARLIE MARSHALL
The Hancock County School Board gathered for a recessed meeting on Thursday, Oct. 20, to take care of routine business and to discuss several action items.

Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois reported that she would be interviewing a speech therapist to be employed on an "as needed" basis. She also told the board that, upon further investigation, no asbestos was found in either the roofing or deck materials at Gulfview Elementary School.

Bourgeois said she had received a letter from the ACLU, reminding her that prayer was no longer practiced at school, except for graduation ceremonies. She said that most everyone has been comfortable with a moment of silence at school functions.

Board attorney, Steve Benvenutti recommended that the law be followed.

The board members rejected the bids the county received for construction at the alternative school. Members voted to readvertise for bids or quotes.

They discussed changing the job description of administrative assistants to administrative secretaries and establishing job descriptions for specific positions.

Kay Sones mentioned that the staff had always pitched in to help out with whatever needed to be done and only "fine lines" distinguished their duties.

The pay scales also entered the picture, but no specific salaries were mentioned except when it was pointed out that experience dictates the amount each position pays.

The superintendent asked the board to set things right, but the topic was tabled until their next meeting.

The board took up another issue familiar to the last few meetings — the policy on checking out students at Hancock High School.

Larry Peterson wanted to dispense with the rule that only parents and not adult designees can make a student out. He believes that parents should be able to make arrangements for an additional number of responsible parties to sign the student out.

"We cannot legislate laws on parents," he said.

Kay Sones agreed with Peterson, but Carol Bustetter and Cheryl Bennett wanted to stay with the policy already prepared.

"Remember, the principal and school committee put this out," Bustetter said.

The matter will continue when all board members are present to come to a deciding vote.

State's September unemployment down

Strong seasonal factors pushed Mississippi's unemployment rate sharply downward in September. The mass exodus of unsuccessful student jobseekers from the summer labor market was the prime mover in lowering the jobless count by 15,600 persons from August.

Nonagricultural jobs rose by over 4,000 over the month, but were partially offset by seasonal losses in farm-related employment, domestic jobs and the number of self-employed persons. The end result was a smaller labor force and a significant drop in joblessness.

The September rate fell to 5.3 percent, well below the August rate of 6.5 and the year-ago rate of 6.4 percent. This was the lowest rate so far in 1994, and the second lowest rate in the last 15 years. A relative lack of major layoffs also helped keep the jobless count low.

When adjusted for seasonality, the rate showed the same tendency, dropping from 6.3 to 5.2 percent. This lends credence to the fact that things continue to improve across the Magnolia State in regard to economic conditions. As usual, conditions varied widely across the Magnolia State, but most local areas showed at least some improvement in joblessness when compared to August.

Twenty-five counties registered rates of five percent or less during the month, while only three reported joblessness in excess of ten percent. Thirty-one counties matched or bettered the statewide rate of unemployment.

Lafayette County led all others with a rate of 1.7 percent. Humphreys County was on the other end of the scale with a rate of 13.1 percent.

The month of October could bring further improvement in labor force conditions, as farm-related work picks up and retail trade employment rebounds. It appears that 1994 may yet match its predecessor in terms of economic progress.

Halter Marine awarded $46.9 million contract

Halter Marine Inc. of Gulfport has been awarded a $46.9 million Navy contract for the design and construction of a T-AGS 63 oceanographic survey vessel, U.S. Senator Trent Lott said.

Lott said the T-AGS 63 ship is a modern oceanographic survey vessel capable of performing a broad range of research and defense survey operations. The data collected will be used by Navy oceanographers at Stennis Space Center in Hancock County, as well as personnel throughout the Navy's fleet.

"This vessel will be capable of fulfilling Defense Department requirements and will have the speed and endurance to meet ocean survey and data collection missions," Lott said, adding that it will be equipped with multi-beam sonars.

Lott said that work on the $46,984,379 fixed-price contract will be performed in Moss Point and is expected to be completed by January 1998.

Earlier this year Halter Marine won a $67 million contract to build two oceanographic research vessels for the Navy and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. Those ships will collect oceanographic, acoustic and geophysical data in coastal and deep ocean areas in support of naval and commercial shipping.

"We are very proud of Halter Marine's impressive record in winning these competitive contracts," Lott said. "They are key to helping keep shipbuilding jobs in Mississippi."

Favre continued, "We will probably announce real soon another 'work party' for the grounds in order to get things flowing once again."

The second floor of the old depot will be used to house the Anderson Genealogical Library which will be temporarily housed in the old Women's, Infants and Children's building on Dunbar Avenue.

Bay St. Louis has received grant money and some $800,000 will be used on the depot building and grounds restoration.

and released.

The accident took place in the right-hand westbound lane of U.S. 90, at approximately 3:30 p.m.

Hancock County Sheriff's deputies, Mississippi State Highway Patrol units, Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police Departments and Hancock County Volunteer Fire Department personnel responded to the accident.

Hancock County School Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois said she thought the situation was handled well.

"The bus driver's seat was broken and he had to stand up and steer the bus to where it stopped in the ditch. If he were not so experienced the injuries could have been a lot worse. I really feel that he did a good job to keep the bus from flipping over," Bourgeois said.

The bus had been carrying 18 students and the driver had just asked them to move toward the front of the bus so there were no students in the rear, where the bus was hit, Bourgeois said.

The school's insurance company will be contacting parents of students involved in Tuesday's wreck, Bourgeois said.

"I want to compliment Hancock Medical Center and the parents. Everyone made the situation a lot easier and cooperated very well," Bourgeois said.

Soccer Plex needs governmental help

The Scott Demboski Memorial Soccer Plex located on Longfellow Road is beginning to take shape. The Soccerplex is a much-needed facility for Hancock County's children involved in soccer.

The Bay Area Youth Soccer (BAYS) group, who are the organizers and all volunteers, have already put some $30,000 plus, from mostly private contributions, into the facility. Some 25,000 yards of fill have been placed at the site and more is still needed.

Thousands of man hours have been volunteered at the facility, from pulling stumps, filling holes, moving dirt, cutting grass, to removing trash, etc.

This work has been done by some very dedicated citizens who will not take no for an answer, because they feel there is a tremendous need for a first class soccer complex in Hancock County.

Yet, there is much more in money and man hours to be done.

If one would look at the number of our young boys and girls involved in soccer programs they would find there are well over 300. It is one of the most popular youth sporting activities in Hancock County.

There are even three high schools with soccer programs offered to students.

We are told if there was more governmental participation in the construction of the facility, it could be completed within the next year.

The facility then would be the envy of every county in the state.

Won't you help?

"CUEVAS" QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

It will be homecoming Friday night for the Bay High Tigers.

Bay High will be playing the Long Beach Bearcats at J.D. McCullough Stadium.

Hancock High will play host to Pearl River Central Friday, while St. Stanislaus will travel to St. Martin. Pass Christian's Pirates will host Lumberton at home in a district game.

Hancock High's Hawks, after wins over St. Stanislaus and Bay High, took the undisputed championship for the county this year.

The Hawks will have to be in tip-top form to trip Pearl River this week.

Bay High will be looking to get back on the winning track against Long Beach, who always seem to rise to the occasion against the Tigers.

St. Stanislaus will try to avoid the sting of the Yellow Jackets at St. Martin.

Stanislaus needs to get its defense in gear if they expect to stay close to St. Martin.

Offensively the Rocks have done well this season.

Pass Christian has had its problems in recent weeks. The Pirates need to take Lumberton to have a shot at being in the playoffs after a tremendous start this year.

Your local high school football teams need your support Friday night, and I hope to see you at the game.

The cooler weather moving into the area on Wednesday was welcomed by most residents.

It will not be long until those real cold days and nights will be here.

Our days are getting shorter and shorter. They will really make a big jump in getting shorter on Sunday when we roll the clocks back one hour.

Most of us will be getting off work and have to use headlights to drive home.

So, when you go to bed Saturday night, don't forget to move your clocks back one hour.

Reader objects to term limitations on officials

Dear Editor,
I am writing in opposition to term limits in Mississippi. I base my opposition on several factors. One, if a man or woman is doing an outstanding job, it doesn't make sense to remove them.

Where would Mississippi be without Pat Harrison, Jim Eastland, Bill Colmer, John Stennis, Sonny Montgomery and Jaime Whitten? I don't think we would have Keesler Air Force Base, the Seabee Base, the Pascagoula Homeport, NASA, Camp Shelby, the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway, several VA hospitals and retirement homes, and don't forget assisting Ingalls Shipbuilding.

The petition organizer is quoted as saying, "When everybody has a level playing field, there is no seniority process." California has 52 members in the House of Representatives, and New York has 31. Our five representatives hardly produce a level playing field.

Term limits would increase the influence of career staff members and special interest over our freshman legislators.

I understand many people want change, but unless we want California and New York to control our government to a greater degree than they do already, we must oppose term limits.

We should never penalize those who are doing a good job. This holds true in every field of endeavor, private or public.

'Tiger Pride' needed someone to sound off

Dear Editor,
Horray for someone sounding off for the band — our Bay High Tiger Pride.

I am only a rookie, but I've never seen a picture or write-up in our paper yet.

Of course, Mr. Rowell and Mr. Baldree always have their hearts in the right place for us.

We did very well at the competition in Foley, Ala. on Saturday, didn't we?

So horns ups to the Bay High Tiger Pride Band, and good luck to us in the following school year.

A Rookie,

Texas ranch ordered to stop seeking Mississippi investors

Secretary of State Dick Molpus has announced that his Securities Division has issued a cease and desist order against a Texas ranch offering an investment dealing in emus — large birds that resemble ostriches.

S&W Emu Ranch of Pine-land, Texas, was ordered to stop seeking Mississippi investments in what Securities officials described as "unregistered sale of investment contracts involving the purchase of emus from S&W with the option of having S&W care for and market the emus on behalf of the investor."

Assistant Secretary of State Susan A. Shands said ads placed by S&W in state newspapers mentioned a return of "100-600% on your money" and that these contracts were a "safe, sure investment."

S&W held meetings with potential investors recently in McComb, Hattiesburg and Meridian, as well as Monroe, La. Investigators for Molpus' office attended the Hattiesburg and Meridian meetings.

Emus are large, flightless birds native to Australia and raised for their meat, hides and feathers.

"Mississippi investors need to ask questions — check out investments before they hand over their money for anything," said Shands. "If a deal sounds too good to be true, it probably is."

She noted that legitimate investment opportunities exist in new areas, such as emus, but investors must do their homework and understand the risks.

Emu breeding is a relatively new industry which involves more than 400 Mississippians as emu breeders, according to Wesley Newel of Hattiesburg, president of the Mississippi Emu Association.

"Potential investors should consider these new start-up businesses as money that may be lost because of unforeseen circumstances or market conditions, and not use money they are saving for retirement or their children's college education," Shands warned.

For more information, call the Securities Division at 601-359-6364.

Academy Day, a great opportunity for Mississippi's young people

If you are a seventh through 12th grader with a possible interest in attending one of our nation's outstanding service academies, you and your parents may want to travel to Hattiesburg on Saturday, Oct. 29.

On Saturday more than a dozen service academy representatives and ROTC representatives will meet at Hattiesburg High School to conduct the 5th Congressional District's 3rd Annual Academy Day. Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m., with the program beginning at 9.

The purpose of Academy Day is to introduce south Mississippi's youth to the opportunities and challenges of our nation's service academies or a career in the Armed Services.

Representatives of the Coast Guard, Navy, Air Force, Merchant Marine, Army and ROTC will be there to answer any questions a parent or youth may have about entrance into the academies, or a career in the military service in general.

As I have said before, this is a great opportunity for students from all corners of south Mississippi to meet one-on-one with representatives of our service academies.

At previous Academy Days we have seen hundreds of young adults gain invaluable insight during the question and answer sessions.

Last year, U.S. Naval Academy guidance officer Capt. Sandy Coward said, "Our purpose is to impress on students the need to work hard starting right now so they'll have a range of viable college options when they graduate from high school."

So if you or someone you know has any interest in learning more about the Air Force, Navy, Merchant Marine, Army or Coast Guard Academies, Academy Day is the place to be on Saturday. For information contact my Hattiesburg office at 1-800-273-4363.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

M/E/C

Courtrooms are no place for jokes

An elephant trainer was recently killed when one of his circus elephants attacked, crushed and speared him with its huge ivory tusks during a performance in Hawaii. Ironically, the trainer was attempting to save the life of another circus employee who was being attacked.

After killing the trainer in the circus tent, the elephant then rushed into the streets and began attacking bystanders.

The animal was out of control. Authorities quickly realized that there was nothing left for them to do but destroy the animal before it did more harm.

But the story doesn't end. An animal rights activist group is now suing several parties, including the circus, the animal's owner, and those who shot and killed the elephant. The suit claims that several of the activist group's members are supposedly suffering emotional trauma over the death of the animal.

It sounds like a joke, but in the United States today there are hundreds, maybe thousands, of similarly ridiculous lawsuits. Some of them are funny; some of them are not. But the civil justice system is no place for jokes.

The Mississippi Economic Council recognizes that in Mississippi, like in other states, there exists a crisis in the civil justice system.

In fact, business, industrial and professional firms in Mississippi face even greater exposure to liability suits than their competitors in other states; and such exposure is adversely affecting economic growth of the firms and the economic advancement of the state.

Reforms should be enacted in the civil justice system both to assure fairness for all parties in liability lawsuits and to encourage economic development.

Jokes are for comedy clubs, not courtrooms.

It takes a little effort NOT to throw our litter out the window and so much effort and expense to pick it up again.

Pumpkin

What are you going to do with that fresh pumpkin you're left with after the Halloween revelry is over? Pumpkin soup is one of my usual choices, perhaps ladled from the pumpkin shell, if there's enough of it intact and "unsquashed." One overly ambitious cook of my acquaintance hollows out individual pumpkin shells for serving her soup. Just imagine that!

I usually have a goodly supply of pumpkin to deal with, as it takes me at least two tries to get a halfway respectable Jack-O-Lantern. I sometimes make pumpkin bread or pumpkin pie or cookies, and, of course, braised the pumpkin and made it into a "stuffed" casserole dish, just as I do with other members of the squash family.

Then I recalled the light and souffle-like pumpkin fritters I've made from time to time (substituting mirilton flesh, or yellow squash when the fresh pumpkin is unavailable. I could, of course, use canned pumpkin, but the fresh pumpkin taste is so much better.

This recipe is from "The Chicago Tribune Cookbook" and may be used as an appetizer as well as a side dish.

PUMPKIN FRITTERS

2 cups peeled, seeded, finely-diced fresh pumpkin

1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
1/8 teaspoon salt
2 large eggs, separated
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
1/4 cup butter, melted, cooled
Vegetable oil for deep-frying

Add pumpkin to boiling water in large saucepan, and cook until crisp-tender, 3 to 5 minutes. Drain, rinse under cold water to stop the cooking. Pat dry on paper towels.

Mix flour and salt in large bowl. Lightly beat egg yolks in small bowl; stir in buttermilk and butter. Gradually stir into flour mixture until smooth. Do not overmix. Let batter stand for 1 hour.

Heat oil in deep saucepan to 375 degrees. Beat egg whites in small bowl until stiff but not dry and gently fold into batter. Add pumpkin, stirring just enough to mix. Carefully drop batter from a 1/4 cup measure into hot oil. Deep-fry, a few at a time, turning once, until puffed and golden, 2 to 3 minutes.

Remove with a slotted spoon, and drain on paper towels. Serve immediately.

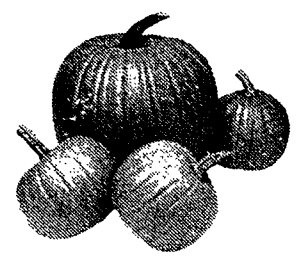

VARIATIONS: For a spicy appetizer, add 1/4 cups finely diced boiled ham and 3 large Jalapeno peppers, seeded and minced, to the batter. Serve with salsa.

For a brunch treat, add 3 tablespoons of sugar to the batter. After frying, sprinkle with cinnamon-sugar while hot.

Counseling program off to good start

By M. E. Williams

A program designed to help teachers earn a master's degree in school counseling is off to a good start at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Coast.

The program, which began this fall, is a 36-hour curriculum similar to the program currently offered at the USM-Hattiesburg campus, said Dr. Darlys Alford, assistant professor of psychology, who is overseeing USM-Gulf Coast's counseling master's degree program.

It offers those interested in earning a master's degree in school counseling for kindergarten through 12th grade an opportunity to do so on a part-time basis during the school year and on a full-time basis during the summer months on the Gulf Coast, she said.

"We enrolled 26 students in the program this fall, which is a major feat since we only got approval in June to do it," Alford said.

"We'll be opening the application process again in January for the fall 1995 class."

Fall class enrollment will be limited to 26 students, a number Alford expects to reach easily.

"The main reason we were so eager to begin this program is that we have so many teachers across the Coast who wanted to attend classes (on the Coast)," she said.

Student reaction from the inaugural class has been "very enthusiastic," Alford said, which "reaffirms our belief there is such a need for a program like this. It is absolutely timely."

Mississippi's Department of Education has mandated that more counselors be available in all levels of the public school system to deal with student problems, Alford said. Courses for the master's program are designed to mirror state Department of Education mandates, Alford said.

"There are so many students in the school systems down here, so the need for school counselors is very great at both the elementary and the high school level," she said.

For more information on USM-Gulf Coast master's program in school counseling, call Alford at 865-4512.

Fun for all

Bay St. Louis Elementary School in Pearlington will be hosting an old-time Fall Festival on Saturday, Oct. 29 from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. The festival of this type has not been held in Pearlington for a long time, and this year's activities are an attempt to once again involve the entire community in wholesome fun centered around the family. The school's Parent-Teacher Organization is sponsoring the event, and many businesses in Bay St. Louis and Waveland have offered their support for the rural school's efforts. Booths will open at 10 a.m. and will offer fun for all ages. In addition to traditional game booths, arts and crafts booths and attic treasures booths are being set up. Pizza, hamburgers and hot dogs are the main food items offered throughout the day, but purchase of a draw down ticket entitles the holder to a dinner of red beans and rice, a big piece of sausage, homemade cornbread, coleslaw, tea and dessert. There will be live entertainment throughout the day, with Montage performing during the draw down from 3 to 6 p.m. The winner will receive one-half of the money collected from the ticket sales. Following the draw down, a costume dance will be held in the school's cafeteria with prizes given to students with the best costumes. Parent and faculty volunteers have been working to complete the booths and prepare for the day's activities.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

An evening appointment which had stood firm for a week suddenly feel through. Not to waste an opportunity, I grabbed the phone and tried to set up another. That failing, I tried for a third appointment which needed timely attention.

When that effort was also unsuccessful, I threw up my hands and looked around for something useful to do. At that moment, the phone rang, drawing my thoughts with each ring.

"This is Pippy!" an anxious voice jumped at me.

"Pippy! How are you? What on earth is going on?"

 "It's Coralie! She's in a bad way. You need to come over as soon as possible."

In fifteen minutes I was walking into the crowded house of Coralie's mother, Margaret. Dozens of relatives and some friends filled almost every room, especially the bedroom where stricken Coralie lay so thin, so weak, so troubled.

"You came!" Pippy beamed. "Any other time I have tried to contact you I have had great problems finding you. But this time you were right there at the other end of the line."

God steers us

The failed appointment and the futile attempts at making two new ones popped into my mind. They were simply not meant to be, because God had something more important on the line. It was obviously a case of God's caring providence.

A feeling of awe fell upon me as I neared my friend. I had known of her terminal bout with cancer for a couple of years. Now it had come down to these last few hours when she needed her relatives and friends to help her into the arms of Jesus.

Positioning myself on the bed, I looked into Coralie's bloodshot, failing eyes and called her gently by name. When I identified myself, she recognized me immediately, much to my delight. She had enough awareness to recognize everyone.

Soon I made a dedication to Coralie and began to sing "Amazing Grace" to her. She moved responsively to the words and the melody, continuously changing her facial expressions and trying with great difficulty to speak a few words.

Someone holding a Bible began to read passages from the book of Psalms. Readings are less attention-getting then dynamic singing, but they still did not fall on deaf ears. I kept thinking: "It doesn't get any more real than this."

Relatives and friends passed by regularly, stroking Coralie's head and telling her how much they loved her. She acknowledged each one, sometimes getting a few coherent words together and saying how pleased she was.

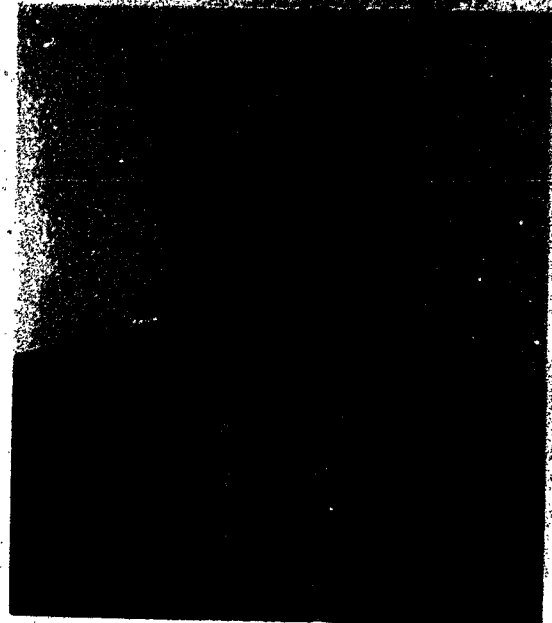

Her daughter Trinice sang a customized version of Precious Lord, displaying good timber in her voice, style and a lot of feeling. Asked whether she enjoyed it, Coralie nodded vigorously and uttered several words of approval.

That was the signal for an encore from Trinice, with the same gratifying results. I sang more songs, and all of us sang, prayed and listened to more Scripture readings.

Affirmed and supported in prayer and love by many relatives and friends, Coralie continued her journey home into the evening of the next day when she began to say, "Husband! Husband! Husband!" Her soul took flight shortly afterward.

When we make appointments, etc., we feel generally in control. But God often reminds us to preface whatever we do with, "if the Lord wills it" (James 4: 15).

Thoughts for meditation:
 It is very helpful to make a habit of offering, morning by morning, the troubles of the day just beginning to our dear Lord, accepting His will in all things, especially in all little personal trials and vexations.

—H. L. Lear
 Though I walk in the midst of trouble, You preserve my life.
 Psalm 138:7

When love and skill work together, expect a masterpiece.
 —Ruskin

Father, I give You my life and ask You to use Your love and Your skill to work a masterpiece in me. I confess to You that I fail when I try to go alone. Please take control of my life. Amen.

A little learning is not a dangerous thing to one who does not mistake it for a great deal.

—White

Let the wise listen and add to their learning, and let the discerning get guidance. The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge.
 Proverbs 1:5-7

Are you lonely, O my brother? Share your little with another! Stretch a hand to one unfriended, and your loneliness is ended.

Teach my heart to reach out to others and continually remind me, Father, that I have many brothers and sisters in Your family. Amen.

To have what we want is riches; but to be able to do without is power.

THE SEA COAST ECHO - THURSDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1994-1B

CELEBRATING THE GULF

Early morning showers failed to dampen the spirits of those participating in Celebrate the Gulf Festival held Saturday in Pass Christian Harbor.

The clouds parted that morning to bring out the crowds anticipated to attend the fourth annual festival that was a combination learning experience and day of fun.

The festival, designed to bring education, conservation and environmental awareness to the community, did just that as hundreds enjoyed the exhibits, fishing rodeo, puppet show, and rescue demonstrations.

A children's art contest was a highlight of the event as more than 10,000 area students participated.

Model boats

A popular attraction at the Celebrate the Gulf Education Festival was the St. Bernard model boat and woodcarvers display.

U of Memphis has Hancock connection

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
You might ask why I am writing about the University of Memphis Lady Tiger basketball team. Well, the Tigers have a Hancock County connection in Joyce Lee-McNelis and Mike Ladner.

Lee-McNelis and Ladner both starred at Hancock North Central High School in Kiln. Now they both coach at the University of Memphis. Lee-McNelis is the head coach of the Lady Tigers and Ladner is one of her assistants.

The Lady Tigers had an outstanding year finishing 17-12. One might ask how is that outstanding. When a team starts three freshmen, one sophomore, and a senior, then that is amazing to finish with that kind of record.

Lee-McNelis is in her fourth year at the helm and this year looks even more promising than last year. She returns four of five starters from last year. Kitty Allen, the Great Midwest Newcomer of the Year, and Keeta Matthews, a two-time first team All-Great Midwest selection.

Geary nominated for Heisman

Amie Geary, Our Lady Academy senior, has been nominated for the Wendy's High School Heisman Award, announced Sister Donella Hartmann, principal.

The newly created national program recognizes academic achievement, community service and athletic accomplishment. One boy and one girl will be selected as the national award winners and recognized during the Heisman Trophy national telecast Saturday, Dec. 10.

A member of the National Honor Society and Spanish Honor Society, Geary is vice-president of JETS (Junior Engineering Technical Society) and a member of Campus Ministry, the Student Ministry team, the Senior Retreat team and SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving).

Geary hopes to go to Catholic University of America and major in biomedical engineering. The Wendy's High School Heisman Award is sponsored by Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburgers restaurants and the Downtown Athletic Club in association with the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Scholarship

David Hutchinson, Pass Christian resident and student at the Jefferson Davis Campus of Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College, is a recipient of the Myrtle Corrine Strong Williams Scholarship. He was among several scholarship recipients recognized at the MGCCC Alumni Association's Harrison County Chapter meeting in September at the Jefferson Davis Campus in Gulfport.

Last year, Geary was named to the All-State 2A Cross-Country team and placed second in the 1600m run and third in the 800m relay in the 2A District track meet. She received the OLA most valuable player award for cross-country and track in her freshman year and the sportsmanship award for both cross-country and track during her sophomore and junior years.

Geary was named Pepsi Student of the Year during her freshman and sophomore years. During the past summer she was a Girls State Delegate, Engineering 2000 Delegate and served as a missionary in Saltillo, Mexico.

Competition is open to all high school seniors who participate in any of the 31 sports officially sanctioned by the National Federation of State High School Associations.

"This new high school award will recognize the best scholar-athlete-citizens, male and female, among our nation's high school seniors, regardless of their sport," said Dave Thomas, founder and senior chairman of Wendy's.

The two national winners will each receive a $5,000 award for their school. Each of the remaining 10 national finalists will receive a $3,000 award for their school.

TIME OUT

Pirates to host Panthers

BY TRACI BONNEY
Pass Christian hosts the Lumberton Panthers Friday in one of the last two games of the regular season.

The match is also one of the last two district games of regular season action for the Pirates. The Pirates' playoff hopes hinge on the outcome of these two games.

However, Pirate head coach Joseph Brown said the team is not focusing on the playoffs. "We're just thinking about trying to get the win Friday. We're just focusing on Lumberton; I told the guys not to think about the playoffs right now."

"We're going to come out and try the best we can to put together a winning game this week. The Panthers have a good team. They've just had a lot of bad breaks this season."

"They're a big team; they've got a good quarterback who throws well, and a big running back who can move the ball."

"We're going to reduce our offense to two or three running plays, maybe one passing play, and hope to execute. Execution is what counts."

At 6-3 overall and 2-1 in district action, the Pirates already have achieved a winning season.

The Pirates-Panthers game is set to kick off at 7:30 p.m. in Francis S. McDonald Stadium.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. If ever anyone thinks the casinos have hurt fishing along the Coast, they are wrong, wrong, wrong. The picture in this week's column shows Martha Tarver with her catch from the mud flats behind Casino Magic.

The expression on her face seems to indicate she is somewhat pleased with her catch. The saying on her t-shirt is "life begins after coffee," but is clear from looking at her that life begins after you have a wheelbarrow of fresh fish to put in the skillet.

Hey, Martha, did I hear you say something about coming over to help you eat those fish? Well, I guess you can't fault a Turtle for trying.

The reds, trout and drum are responding to both live and dead shrimp. There are several ways to fish the shrimp. If you use live shrimp you can try them about 24 inches under a popping cork, or you can fish them on the bottom.

If you decide to fish your live shrimp on the bottom, make sure you fix your line so they have room to run. This means using your anchor for a sinker is out of the question. An anchor is usually just a little bit too heavy to use with light tackle. I wonder what test line you need to have to use an anchor for a sinker?

Anyway, use about a 5/0 hook on the end of about 18 to 24 inches of mono line. Attach the end of the leader to a swivel snap on the end of your line. To the swivel snap you add a quarter-ounce sinker. The small sinker will give you just enough weight to cast your bait while still allowing the bait enough freedom to swim naturally.

If your live bait becomes dead bait, or if you only want to fish with dead bait, a different setup will work better, more better, gooder, whatever — you know what I mean. To make the different setup take a 24-inch piece of about 20-pound mono line and set it up so you have 10 inches on one side and 14 inches on the other side. (I bet you didn't know Turtle could add? — Wonders never cease!)

Right where you bend the line to make two sides you can either tie a loop or you can add a swivel. After you add the swivel to the bend you need to tie a swivel snap to each end of the line.

On one swivel snap you attach a 4/0 or a 5/0 hook. On the other swivel snap you attach a sinker that weighs no more than one half ounce.

Now, I know that some of the fishing buddies like to use heavier sinkers. The theory is a heavier sinker will allow you to cast your bait farther and it will get to the bottom faster. But, let's look at the down side of that heavy sinker argument.

A heavy sinker limits the action of your bait — even dead bait will move somewhat in the current. If the current is so strong that you need a heavier sinker to keep your bait on the bottom it is probably too strong to have many fish around, so you are wasting good fishing time anyway.

Next thing against heavy sinkers is they limit your ability to feel fish which have light biting techniques. Fish such as drum and sheepshead tend to wanna suck the bait off your hood, so it is already hard to feel when they are biting. If your bait is anchored to the bottom by a 900-pound sinker (or even an ounce sinker) it is almost impossible to feel the light bite of fish like sheepshead. So, lighten up, gang.

Meanwhile, back at the Jourdan River Bait Shop, their recommendation this week is: to catch fish you have gotta go fishing. Since that sounds like a reasonable suggestion I asked them to make some recommendations as to where to go fishing in the Jourdan River area to catch some fish. I told them they better not tell me the best place to fish is in the water. The folks at the bait shop recommended the flats by Casino Magic for reds, flounder and some nice trout.

The mouth of the bayous that come into Jourdan River, especially if you fish on the bottom, are producing nice catches of drum, reds, flounders and a few trout. Catfish Cutoff, across from Casino Magic has been producing fair to good catches of nice trout using live shrimp.

The number one spot in numbers of fish caught was the mouth of Breath Bayou on the bottom.

Since there have been a number of fishermen looking for bait at the house of John Auderer on Bayou View Drive, maybe I better give directions on how to get to Jourdan River Bait Shop again.

Take Central Avenue, which is the street right next to Todd's Grocery and Gas on Hwy. 603, till you get to a four-way stop sign on Central Avenue. You will notice if you go straight you will be on a dirt road. If you follow this road the next few blocks it will dead-end at Bayou View Drive. You need to turn left on Bayou View Drive till you get to Tahati Street. Turn right on Tahati and drive till you pass under the brick columns, then turn right again on N. Nassau and go till you hit the bait shop. By the way, if you get lost, the phone number for Jourdan River Bait Shop is 466-4601.

By the way, a second time Mr. Auderer does not have any fish

Jourdan River anchors

Martha Tarver and her catch bait for sale, but I am told he makes a "mean martini."

One last piece of information. The croaker hole at the mouth of Pearl River is just about out of croakers. But, take heart, the white trout are starting to show up in the hole, and boy, are they hungry. Check with Marie at LaFrance Fish Camp for the up-to-date scoop on the croaker hole.

This week's wonderful wise words: If all waterfront activities could do as much good for fishing as the casinos have done, we would be in high cotton.

How many shrimp would it take to bait an anchor, Turtle?

1994 Pearl River Homecoming queen

Premila Mankodi of Carriere was crowned queen of Pearl River Community College's 1994 Homecoming Saturday before the Wildcats rolled to a 21-3 victory over the Holmes Bulldogs.

Mankodi and her court were presented during pre-game homecoming festivities.

Saturday's activities began at 8 a.m. with the eighth annual Old Fashion Day Arts and Crafts Show at the Pearl River County Courthouse lawn in Poplarville.

An alumni reception and individual reunions took place before the annual alumni luncheon at 11:30 a.m.

D. R. Davis was honored at the luncheon as Alumnus of the Year. Davis is a 1965 PRCC graduate and is Pearl River County's chancery clerk.

Three former athletes were included into the PRCC Sports Hall of Fame. They are Doug Daniels of Poplarville, the late David Hanberry of Oak Grove and Robert Young of Corpus Christi, Texas.

The RiverRoad show choir performed at the luncheon. PRCC's ensemble, The Voices, sang at each reunion during the morning.

During halftime the Spirit of the River marching band and the String of Pearls dance team performed a tribute to composer John Williams, who charted music for such movies as ET, Jaws, Star Wars and

Winners of the student organization displays were Phi Beta Lambda, first place; the Alpha Omega Society, second; and the Student Alumni Foundation, third. Awards included cash prizes of $50, $35 and $25 for the best decorated displays.

Alumni receiving special recognition included Flossie Burge of Henleyfield, for the alumni member with the earliest attendance; and Pat and Shirley Riley of Puerto Rico, for the longest distance traveled to PRCC's homecoming.

Critical friends hurt self-esteem

By Dr. Ann Jarratt
4-H Youth Development Specialist
Cooperative Extension Service

"No matter what I do, I can't please my boyfriend. When we go out with friends, he constantly puts me down in a loud, sarcastic voice, making sure everyone hears it."

"Whenever I'm around him I end up in tears because of how he treats me. I love him and he says he loves me. What can I do?"

My first thought is to tell him to take a hike and never come back. I'm scared to think how he would treat you if he decided he didn't love you.

When just the two of you are together, tell him how you feel when he criticizes you, especially in front of others. Let him know the next time he embarrasses you, you will remind him of this talk. If it happens again, tell him you will have someone take you home, signaling the end of the relationship.

How do you feel about yourself in situations when he is not involved? Do you think of yourself as a valuable person who knows how to be a friend and who has unique talents and abilities? If you answer anything but yes, you need to do some homework.

Start a list of your strengths. Don't forget words like loyal and truthful — things that go below the surface. If your list is shorter than you would like, set goals to develop traits you would like to have. Every day add other positive traits to your list.

I hope one of your goals is to spend as little time as possible with people who tear you down. You're too valuable and life is too short to be miserable. Choose friends who encourage you and build you up. Your boyfriend doesn't seem to fit into this category.

"I have the worst parents in the universe. They constantly make me miserable. I hate them most of the time."

"The biggest problem is they can't stand my boyfriend. He has been in trouble and has dropped out of school, but he's older and can do lots of things without a diploma. I know people who made a lot of money and never graduated from high school.

"Of course, my parents think he'll never amount to anything, but I don't care — I love him anyway. How can I get them off my back?"

I can imagine your parents are scared bad things may happen to you because of the trouble your boyfriend has been in. I also suspect they are afraid if you marry him, you will live in poverty because he can't get a good job.

There are a few things you can do that may help get your parents off your back.

Be careful when you go out with him to follow your parents' rules. If you break the rules when you're out with him, your parents may put another black mark by his name.

Let him know what your parents expect of someone you date. If he wants to be a part of the solution, he will try to act according to what they expect. Be honest with your parents so they can feel comfortable with what you tell them.

Encourage your boyfriend to go back to school and get all the education and training he can. In today's world, a person's standard of living is bleak without high school and additional training.

If you have questions concerning your teenage years, write Dr. Ann Jarratt, 4-H youth development specialist, Box 9641, Mississippi State, MS 39762.

Consumer preferences change for vegetables

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

The U.S. Department of Agriculture recently released figures on what you and I eat in the way of fresh vegetables. I know they didn't ask me, and I doubt they asked you about your vegetable eating habits, yet here are the figures.

According to the statistics, we ate more than 137 pounds of fresh vegetables, excluding potatoes, last year and are expected to eat the same in 1994. In fact, we've been eating about the same amount of vegetables since 1989, but the kinds of vegetables have been changing.

The consumption of salad vegetables has increased. Romaine and leaf lettuce use increased about 2 pounds per person from 1988 to 1994. While leaf lettuce showed an increase, head lettuce dropped about 4 pounds during this time. Head lettuce makes up almost one-fifth of the total weight of fresh vegetables consumed.

Onion consumption increased about a pound per person in the '90s, possibly because of the publicity given to the health benefits attributed to onions and the availability of large sweet onion varieties in grocery stores.

Fresh tomato consumption is projected at 16 pounds per person in 1994 and bell pepper consumption is projected at almost 6 pounds. Broccoli, often touted in Mississippi Gardens

as the healthiest of all vegetables to eat, has hit a plateau. Consumption rose almost 3 pounds from 1979 to 1989, but has dropped a pound for 1994, at about 3 pounds per person.

The introduction of the fresh fruit and vegetable industry's program of "five a day" was hoped to double fresh fruit and vegetable consumption in the '90s, but so far it has not been successful. However, between 1979 and 1989, we increased our consumption of vegetables from 110 pounds per person to 137 pounds per person.

Projected per capita consumption figures for 1994 for other fresh vegetables include about 8 pounds each of cabbage and carrots, about 2 pounds of cauliflower, about 6 pounds each of celery and sweet corn and about 5 pounds of cucumbers.

Excluding potatoes, head lettuce and onions are the only fresh vegetables consumed in quantities greater than 8 pounds per year.

So, how average are you? If you grow a garden you are far above average since you eat a lot of vegetables not considered in the USDA list, such as squash, turnips, collards, peas and mustard greens.

Since most onions and all sweet corn are cooked before eating, the USDA list doesn't mean vegetables eaten raw. It means vegetables purchased raw and consumed at home either raw or cooked.

If you grow vegetables in a garden, you are more likely to eat more vegetables. Remember that the vegetables listed and the quantities eaten don't include white potatoes and the frozen and canned vegetables consumed, which probably amount to about 100 pounds per person a year.

As a Mississippi vegetable gardener you eat more fresh vegetables than the average person. You certainly eat fresher vegetables since yours only have to travel from the garden to your kitchen. And you get to enjoy growing them.

Mobile Medic begins training

Mobile Medic Ambulance Service has started monthly courses in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) for the public at the company's headquarters at 12020 Intraplex Parkway in Gulfport.

These new "open enrollment" courses will be held Oct. 27, Nov. 17 and Dec. 8, 6:30 p.m. to about 10 p.m. Each course is limited to 15 registrants and is filled on a first-come, first-served basis.

To enroll individuals or groups, call Billie Hewes at 897-1194 at least two days before the course.

Cost is $25 per student, payable at the start of the course. The charge is strictly to cover the cost of the course. Mobile Medic makes no profit on the training.

Mobile Medic's instructors follow the standards of the American Heart Association. Students who pass the course receive a certificate of course completion.

In addition to these courses, the company's instructors will continue to teach CPR throughout the community as they have for years.

CPR is a technique for attempting to save the life of someone whose heart or lungs have stopped working. CPR is a combination of compressions on the chest and breathing into the patient's lungs to keep oxygen circulating in the victim's body.

As seen on television shows, such as Rescue 911, CPR can save a life or help paramedics save a life when they arrive.

When heart or lung arrest interrupt oxygen flow, humans suffer permanent brain damage within four to six minutes. Heart and lung function may be interrupted by heart attack, choking, suffocation, smoke inhalation, electrocution, poisoning or direct injury to the chest.

For information — other than registration — call Bob Nadolski at Mobile Medic.
